FILE PAPERS FOR

Projected Line to Mines and Smelters Is Formally Launched.

DUMMY OFFICERS NAMED

ENTERPRISE BACKED BY POW ERFUL INTERESTS.

Last Saturday morning The Herald announced that a combination had been formed to build a railroad from this city to the camp of Bingham and from that camp to the great mills and smelters that have already been built on the shores of the lake and to those that are to follow in the near future. It was said that a company organized for that purpose would file its articles within a few days. would file its articles within a few days. Mining and railroad interests believed to be identified with the proposition were mentioned and some of them precipitately jumped into print to make denials. Articles of incorporation of that company were filed yesterday and, as is invariably the case in such events, there is nothing in the personnel of the directorate to donate just who is behind the undertaking and, while it is definitely stated by those in a position to know that the company is in no way connected with the Harriman or other lines, at this stage of the game, that does not mean that there will never be any relationship of that kind. ship of that kind.

Details of Incorporation.

The company is given the title of the Bingham Central Railway company. It is capitalized for $500,000 in shares of a par value of $100 each. A. C. Ellis, jr., is named as president; T. W. Sloan, vice president; John Weir, jr., second vice president; W. T. Gunter, secretary; W. F. Adams, treasurer; these, with A. C. Ellis and R. G. Schulder, completing the list of directors and incorporators. The articles state that the company is organized to build a railroad from here to Bingham; to equip and operate it as a common carrier and do all the other numerous things usually outlined in a charter of this character. The length of the road is estimated at fifty miles and, as it is positively stated by men who know that the proposed line from here to Bingham will be twenty-seven miles, it is seen that The Herald's statement that the road will reach around to the mills and smelters has foundation in fact.

As stated last Saturday, there is no question in the world but that this corporation in the world but that this corporation. As stated last Saturday, there is no question in the world but that this corporation has had its birth in the necessiporation has had its birth in the necessities of the big compraies operating in Bingham, these including the Bingham Consolidated, Ohio Copper, United States S. company, Boston Consolidated, Utah Copper, Utah Consolidated and other great mines of the Bingham camp. It is also certain that the Bingham terminal of the road will be the mouth of the Mascotte tunnel of the Bingham Consolidated company, which will be electrically equipped to handle any amount of freight in and ore out from the mines, even up to 15,000 tons a day of ore alone.

It comes from a source that can be depended upon that the line will surely be built and the expectation is that ground for the line reaching from here to camp will be broken this fall. So nicely has the line of the road been detarmined that it is already known that at no point, in or out of camp, will the grade exceed three-fourths of one per cent, while such lines as the Copper Belt and "Sky" line, at Bingham, have to contend with grades of more than 2 per cent.

From what it is possible to gather on From what it is possible to gather on the outside it seems that the Mascotte tunnel of the Bingham Consolidated company has been and is being constructed with a view of handling the business of the new road at camp. It is said to be seven by ter feet in the clear and so constructed as to give absolute safety in the handling of trains on double tracks. This tunnel is declared to be more than 14.000 feet long now and it will tap such mines as the Utah Consolidated at a vertical depth of approximately 2,500 feet. It will cut the Ohio mine at a depth of 1,100 or 1,200 feet at the great shaft now May Day-5000 1,100 or 1,200 feet at the great shaft now being sunk and will make it possible for that company to put ore in its big mill at the mouth of the Mascotte tunnel at a cost of 5 or 6 cents a ton.

That this great tunnel and its connecting avenues will mean everything by and by to the camp of Bingham, is already recognized by mining operators of the district and that the new railroad company's trict and that the new railroad company's connecting outside roads will help to forever solve the transportation problem of the district is also appreciated.

It is impossible to say yet, how the new road is going to get into Salt Lake, but as the Short Line and San Pedro companies have no connection with the Bingham camp, it is safe to presume that they will not throw over their shoulders. Bingham camp, it is safe to presume that they will not throw over their shoulders an opportunity such as the building of the new road is likely to offer for traffic and trackage agreements that would be of mutual benefit. The enterprise is one that is understood to be already financed, and if it is not, there is no question but that the projectors know where the money is coming from to build it. As a representative of one of the big companies operating in Binglam stated during operating in Bingham stated during the afternoon:
"The road is going to be built; you can bet your last penny on that."

BOSTON OPERATOR LIKES THE WEIMER

Charles H. Harvey of Boston, who is interested in the Weimer Copper company and who, with Mrs. Harvey, has been visiting in Salt Lake for several days, returned yesterday morning from a trip of inspection to the property. He states that he was simply astounded at the showing that has been made at the property during the less than a year that it has been under development by the company.

"I don't suppose that there is much to add to what is generally known here regarding the mine," said Mr. Harvey, "but it may be of interest to local shareholders for me to say that the new work on the Valley View end of the mine is showing things up bigger and better every day. The Valley View tunnel is well beyond the 300-foot mark now and the same splendid body of ore that has been followed for more than 200 feet is still in evidence and looking better as the face of the tunnel is pushed farther ahead.

"It is the intention of the management to begin sinking from this tunnel level in the ore pretty soon with a purpose of dispelling any doubt as to whether the ore goes down, but there is no doubt in my mind on that point now. After sinking a hundred feet or two I understand that another tunnel, to open that end of the mine much deeper, will be started.

the mine much deeper, will be started. The whole proposition looks good to me."

The nights are getting pretty cold at camp, Mr. Harvey says, and some snow fell up the mountains the day he left the hat has been way.

May Day and Uncle Sam and the advance they have been making to several days and everything looked pretty good, with the exception of Mountain Lake, which was dropped from 72c to 69c. Beck Tunnel and Sloux Consolidated look as though they had touched bottom and the trading in Richmond & Anaconda at 21c makes it look as though life was going to be installed into that Tintic proposition.

During the two regular and open board calls a total of 63,700 shares of stock, with calls a total of 63,700 shares of stock, with calls a total of 647,823, changed hands.

The surplus dirt at the Flat will be hauled to the Star Pointer, where the management intends to utilize it in filling up a canyon. When this work has been finished the dinky engine will be kept busy hauling gravel to fill up a trestle near the Star Pointer, and in due course of time other points along the route of the Nevada Northern in Robinson canyon will be filled in.

JAMES M'GREGOR BACK FROM ALASKAN TRIP

James McGregor, the well known mining operator, who recently sold his interests in the Park City district for a million or more, has just returned from an extended pleasure trip to Alaska and, on his way back, to points of interest along the Canadian Pacific railroad. Mr. McGregor left about the middle of July and reports having had a splendid time and as having seen and heard much of interest in a mining way.

"People are pouring out of the interior of the country by hundreds," said Mr. McGregor during the afternoon, "as they are fearful of a food famine during the coming winter. The Guggenheims have captured most of the big placer deposits in the Klondike region and during the year they have simply swamped the Skagway railroad with the immense amount of supplies and machinery that they have been shipping in. They have commenced placer mining on an extensive scale by up-to-date methods and their enterprise has so cut into the business of other people that transportation facilities nave proven altogether inadequate to meet their demands.
